HILL'S BRAVE FIGHT

VOL. XXIII

Against the Corrupt Judiciary of New York,

NOW LEAGUED WITH THE REPUBLICANS

For the Purpose of Stealing the Legislative Majority.

HE PARDONS CANVASSER WELCH,

Whose Voice Judge Kennedy Sought to Stiffe by an Unjust Sentence for Contempt.

ALBANY, N. Y., December 27 .- [Special.] Governor Hill may be relied upon to checkmate every attempt of the republicans to steal the organization of the legis-

His pardon of Supervisor Welch, which the republican and mugwump press of the country is so bitterly denouncing, stamps Governor Hill as a man who is alive to his duty, and who is not afraid of corrupt indges or personal intimidation.

When Governor Hill was elected to the United States senate he was bitterly written up for his expressed purpose of holding on to the governorship until the expiration of his term. On the face of the transaction it looked bad for Hill, but when the state election came off, and Lieutenant Governor Jones went over to the republicans, Hill's purpose was seen and justified. It seems that he knew the treacherous character of Jones better than did the public, and that, in consequence, his duty to the electors who made him governor required him to hold on to the Hill Matches Kennedy. Scarcely had the smoke of the battle of November passed away, when it was seen that the republicans, aided by a corrupt judiciary, were engaged in the work of falsifying the returns, so as to gain control of one branch of the legislature. Although the democrats had carried the state by a majority of nearly fifty thousand, owing to the outrageous apportionment made by republican legislatures, aided by mugwump moralists, the democrats had only succeeded in carrying both houses by a narrow margin. A democratic majority in both houses, with Governor Flower in the executive chair, meant a new and honest apportionment, which would secure New York to the democracy for years to come. The prize was well worth fighting for. In Onendage county Judge Kennedy, as the ready tool of the republicans, undertook to force the board of canvassers to falsify the returns so as to serve his party. Flagrant though his conduct was, it was endorsed by The New York Times and papers of similar character. Fortunately, Governor Hill, who checkmated interview with the governor.

"Welch was a member of the board of canvassers of Onondaga county," said the governor. "The proceeding under which it is attempted to inflict punishment grows out of the canvass of the votes cast at the recent election in that county. It does not appear that Welch disobeyed any order of the court directed to him. Judge Kennedy, sitting at special term, made an order requiring the board of county canction in certain election districts. The order was without precedent, and its legality is open to serious question. The board, acting ler this compulsory mandate and after it correction, directed Welch to take back the returns in the election district in his ward. Basons he could comply with this direction of the board he was subpensed to produce the returns before me upon the trial of charges of official misconduct against the clerk of Onondaga county. One of these charges was that the clerk had made certain alterations of these returns or permitted the alterations of these returns, or permitted the same to be made in his office, and the charge could not be properly determined by me without the actual production of the returns before and the inspection thereof by me. As soon as the hearing was concluded and a decision reached the namers were returned. ision reached the papers were returned to yracuse and were sent to the inspectors and nally corrected, as the order of the court re-

Ought Not to Be Punished.

"Aside from the grave questions involved as to the validity of the order of the court which it is claimed that Welch disobeyed, I am satised that he ought not to suffer punishment on count of what he did under these circumstances. I am entirely familiar with what has taken place in this county during the last rty days, by which it has been attempted, the guise of judicial proceedings, to apel the board of county canvassers to deresults not authorized by law. Every his official duty, was justified in resorting to all honorable and lawful means to prevent the consummation of the great ber of that board, in the discharge wrong which was contemplated. It was sought to substitute a partisan judge in place of the board of canvassers and to nullify the plain provision of the ballot reform law. Every member of the board who endeavored to defeat this partisan scheme and maintain the dignity and jurisdiction of that body upon whom the law had conferred the right to canvass the votes is entitled to commendavass the votes is entitled to commenda-land not to punishment. Never before in history of the state has there been such an itrary use of judicial power attempted.

A Denial of Justice.

There is another sufficient reason why exative clemency should be interposed. Welch made application for a stay of proceedings, rending an appeal from Judge Kennedy's der adjudging him in contempt, which has an arbitrarily denied. This is equivalent to denial of justice, for before his appeal can heard and determined the sentence will mits the court to inflict. No matter how illegal or irregular was the order which he is accused of violating, or how unauthorized the proceedings which resulted in his conviction, there is no adequate redress for him in the courts. It is for just such exceptional cases that the pardoning power was wisely vested by the constitution in the governor, and there should be no hesitation to exercise it when invoked in such a case. The attempt to imprison Welch at this time for thirty days has a pecular significance when it is shown that the board of supervisors without him is tied politically, and it is now in session and will be called upon immediately to appoint a superintendent of the Onondaga penitentiary, a position of conceded political importance. The constituents of Mr. Welch have a right to representation in the board, which ought to have been respected and action in this matter postponed until the board had disposed of the important public business which required its attention. There was no occasion for such undue haste, unless it was intended in this way to deprive the people of the ward which he represents a voice in the county legislature and a lawfully elected majority of the board of its power to give expression to the popular will." its power to give expression to the popular will."

He Is a Democrat, Dead Sure. The democrats of New York are prouder than ever today of their fearless governor. Hill is not a man to be led from the path of duty by the patronizing attentions of longhaired women. He is not posing as a product of New England, or as a better man than his party.

Hill is a democrat, and he don't care who

To the Constitution of the United States

Regarding Religion.

New York, December 27.—The National League for the Protection of American Institutions has prepared an amendment to the constitution of the United States, which will be submitted to both houses of congress shortly after they resume their sessions. This amendment, which, if adopted, will be the sixteenth amendment reads as follows: amendment reads as follows:

amendment reads as follows:

No state shall pass any law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the full exercise thereof, or use to property or credit, or any money raised by taxation, or authorize either to issue bonds for the purpose of founding, mantaining or adding by appropriation, payment for services, expenses or otherwise, any church, religious denomination or religious society, or any institution, society or undertaking, which is wholly,or in part, under sectarian or ecclesiastical control.

institution, society or undertaking, which is wholly or in part, under sectarian or ecclesiastical control.

The officers of the National League for the Protection of American Institutions, are:
President, John Jay; first vice president, William H. Parsons; general secretary, Rov. James M. King, D.D.; treasurer, William Fellows Morgan; chairman finance committee, John D. Stayback; chairman of law committee, William Allen Butler.

The following states prohibit sectarian appropriations in their constitutions: California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin, Wyoming—twenty-one states.

In California the legislature can make per capita grants to institutions. The constitutional prohibition in Indiana, Oregon and Wisconsin covers only religious and theological institutions. Mississippi prohibits any testamentary devise, bequest, legacy or gift to religious, charitable or ecclesiastical corporations or societies. Kentucky has revised its constitution pending popular adoption.

New Orleans, December 27.—A Picayune's Laredo, Texas, special says: "City Marshal Yglesias who, as a deputy United States marshal, accompanied Captain Hardie's company on the scout down the river returned last night. He reports that Captain Hardie was pressing close on the trail of 100 of Garza's men who were driven back to this side by Mexican troops last Wednesday. The marauders had scattered into several bunches and took to the brush. Captain Yglesias states that the reason why Garza did not show up in person during his last movement was that he was so hard pressed in making his escape from Mexico on the occasion of his first raid that an old wound in his bowels became sore again, compelling him to take as little sore again, compelling him to take as little horseback exercise as possible."

Then the conductor ordered him out of the car peremptorily and the negro obeyed. Five minutes later Parramore entered the colored coach, and when he was about five feet in front of the negro's seat Mike suddenly jumped to his feet, pulled a revolver from his pocket, rushed into the aisle, took a step or two toward Parramore, took deliberate aim and fired at him. He could not have been more than three feet behind his victim, and his aim was good.

The ball entered Parramore's head, just behind the right ear, and he fell forward in the aisle, dead. Mike rushed to the platform, jumped from the train, and disappeared in the woods. The train was run back to this station with the body of the murdered man. An inquest was held and then Sheriff Galloway organized a posse to search for the fugitive. How It Works Harm. Paris, December 27 .- The royalist committee of the department of Finisterre intends to ask the archbishop of Aix to be a candidate ask the archbishop of Aix to be a candidate for the seat in the chamber of deputies made vacant by the death of Bishop Freppel. M. Tierard, formerly French minister of finance, in an interview on the subject of negotiations for a commercial treaty between France and the United States, said:

"Treaties of this kind are useful as a modus virgand; between countries where tariffs are so vivendi between countries where tariffs are so high that they paralyze trade. A treaty with nigh that they paralyze trade. A treaty with the United States will be extremely oppor-tune, and will go a long way to secure our en-thusiastic participation in the Chicago fair. The McKinley law has so much harmed our trade that I would favor going to the United States for staples only when it is impossible to obtain what we need elsawhers. The McKin-States for staples only when it is impossible to obtain what we need elsewhere. The McKinley administrative bill is a barbarous piece of legislation, and has caused great ill feeling in France. The whole McKinley bill is due to an error in judgment. Americans argued that as their exports are natural products that other na ions must have, they would be sure to find buyers, and so they could shut their ports to foreign manufacturers. This reason is fallacious. The population of the United States might easily increase to four times the present figure in twenty years. In that case, America would become a still greater exporting country. Look how England has developed since she adopted free trade. If the United States was to adopt a like pollcy America would soon to adopt a like policy America would soon govern the markets of the whole world. By following a policy of prohibitory protection she restricts the future to the limits of home consumption. In France, where it is impossi-ble to develop resources any further, there may be some excuse for protection, but not so in America.

TRAMPLED TO DEATH

Panic in a Theater in England Saturday Night.

THE ALARM OF FIRE IS RAISED

And Immediately There Is a Rush for the Exits

AND NINE LIVES ARE CRUSHED OUT.

Many Acts of Heroism During the Excitement-A Boy's Pipe Caused the Alarm-List of the Killed.

LONDON, December 27 .- A theater in Gateshead, County Durham, was last night the scene of a frightful panic, in which, according to reports received here, at least ten persons including nine children, were killed outright and many injured. The sight of a blaze, caused by a man in the audience dropping a lighted match on the sawdust-covered floor, caused some one to start the cry off"fire!" and terrible panic at once ensued. There was immediately a wild rush for the doors, which, owing to the savage crush and struggle, quickly became so blocked that only a few succeeded at once in getting out. There was especially a violent rush from the stairway leading from the gallery. The passage giving access to this staircase became blocked almost at once with persons who were striving their utmost to es cape, while the staircase itself was filled with a struggling mass of humanity from the top landing all the way to the outlet.

A check-taker was killed in the midst of his heroic efforts to save others' lives. In trying to restrain the crowd in its mad career, he was thrown to the floor and crushed to death beneath the feet of the panic-stricken people. Nine Bodies Found.

When the panic had subsided so that an examination of the premises could be made, the bodies of nine children, whose lives had been literally crushed out, were found lying on the staircase or near the door leading to it A constable, who came to assist in the work of rescue, on dragging out a boy who was wedged among the struggling people discovered that the lad was his own son. The boy, although living when rescued, was terribly injured and died while on the way to

The performance, which was so terribly interrupted, was the second one of Saturday, the attraction being pantomime "Aladdin." The theater was literally crammed with people. At 10:30 o'clock the shout of "fire!" created a fearful scene. The whole audience rose to their feet en masse, and there was dire confusion, in the midst of which were heard the shrieks of women, many of whom fainted. The lessee of the house then displayed the most creditable presence of mind. He stepped on to the stage and shouted to the audience, beseeching them to remain seated and solemnly assured them that there was no real danger if they would do so.

Great Presence of Mind. At this juncture many others of the men present also showed that they retained presence of mind, by forcibly striving to restrain the mad rush of the crowd for the doors, but their brave efforts proved of no avail. The occupants of the pit, and indeed all spectators whose seats were in the better part of the house succeeded in escaping safely to the

It was a sudden bend in the gallery staircase which caused the fearful jam in the exit. People who had fallen and were lying in heaps here, screaming and groaning, were trampled upon. The occasion was made doubly memorable by several acts of heroism. One man, who had occupied a gallery seat, jumped from the gal-lery railing to the balcony betow and slid thence to the stage, all the time holding to a child by his teeth. Other men rescued several women by sim

Within a few hours all of the dead were identified. All were between the ages of thir-teen and sixteen. The names of the dead are: Casley, Robson, Gregg, Garlow, Watson Bainbridge, Murray, Waddington and Forster. The last named was a check-taker. The audi ence numbered 1,200 persons.

The company members escaped in their co tumes, and when they returned they found their dressing rooms had been robbed of their ordinary clothing. The lessee of the theater announces that he will give the proceeds of the performance to the bereaved, and will close the theater pending the inquiry. Boys and Their Pipes.

The statement is made that during the per formance two youths in the balcony insisted on smoking. They were warned to desist several times. They finally desisted but relit their pipes soon afterward. The smoke of thefr pipes was seen issuing from the balcony and a woman, becoming frightened at the sight, screamed "fire!" A man sitting near her immediately gagged her with his hand, but the mischief was done. The gallery was occupied by 500 spectators, mostly boys. Check-taker Forster rushed to open the door which had been fastened. The struggle which ensued was awful. Men thrust aside the weaker lads, who were trampled to death. Two men were badly injured by jumping from windows. The lessee of the theater says that the alarm of fire originated from the act of a boy dropping a lighted match into a crevice filled with waste paper and other rubbish, in his search for a lost penny. He also says that two pails of water sufficed to quench the fire. their pipes was seen issuing from the balcony season will be enjoyed by a party of gentlementh week.

Captain John J. Seay has tendered the use of the White State Star Line steamboat, Clifford B. Seay, to the hunting party, and it will be fired up and start on the trip Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock.

The joily captain. George Magruder, with a good crew, is having everything prepared for the gentlemen.

The boat will drift along down the river, and stop nearly all of each day at places where game is known to abound in any quantity. They expect to enjoy rare sport and their expectations will certainly be realized.

From Tuesday morning until Saturday night will be taken up in making the trip.

Those who are going in the party are Messrs. James D. Kirkpatrick, A. A. Sullivan, W. J. Griffin, E. J. Moultrie, John W. Maddox, S. S. King, Seaborn Wright, T. O. Hand, John J. Seay, Jake C. Moore, John T. Warlick and Messrs. L. H. Beck, Frank E. Block, W. M. Crumley, Jonn C. Kirkpatrick and Hugh McKee, of Atlanta.

WHO WILL GET THERE.

Candidates for the Legislature Are Coming to the Front. MOUNT VERNON, Ga., December 27.—[Special.]—People are beginning to speculate as to who will represent the interests of Montgomery county in the legislature next fall. For the senate we hear the names of Hon. John D. McLeod, of Lumber City: Thomas J. Smith, of Neilly, and J. D. Cameron, of Cobbville, favorably mentioned. It is Telfair's turn, by rotation, and no doubt she will present us with an acceptable man.

For representative we have heard mention of A. L. Adams and Hon. Matthew Sharpe, of Long Pond; Hon. A. G. McArthur, of the Fork, and Hon. Charles S. Hamilton, of Zaidee.

We do not know who or how many of these gentlemen have a desire for the place strong enough to induce them to declare themselves in the race, but we do know that if any of them sit down and wait for the "office to seek the man" some "man who seeks the office" will have got it and gone before the office finds them.

A Young Lady's Attempt to Kill Herself, A Young Lady's Attempt to Kill Herself, and a Young Man's Sudden Flight.

Rochelle, Ga., December 28.—[Special.]—
The report that Miss Cora Barkley, a music teacher of Abbeville, had attempted suicide by taking morphine and that Dr. Roberson, of the same place, has left for "parts unknown," is a nine-days' wonder here. Dr. Roberson is a young man and was one of the leading physicians of Abbeville, while Miss Barkley was known as one of the most beautiful young ladies in this section of Georgia, and was, for a short time, the belle of her town.

MISS JUCH IS HERE.

She Reaches Atlanta Late Yesterday Even ing and Will Appear Today.

Miss Emma Juch, the famous prima donna accompanied by her mother and her company of one hundred members, arrived from Mont gomery last evening. There is only one other company in the United States as large as the Juch Opera Company and that is the Abbey-Grau Italian Opera organization, now singing in the Metropolitan opera house in New York. To transport the Juch company requires two of the largest Pullman sleepers, one dining car, two day coaches, and four of the largest baggage cars, making a train of

Soon after her arrival the beautiful vonns singer was foung in her suite at the Kimball at supper.

Her mother is her inseparable companion, and lives entirely for her gifted child.

Emma Juch is fair to gaze upon. Her pure blonde face is surmounted by a wealth of golden hair that is as natural and undefiled by artificial beautifiers as when it first saw the world. Her large, gray eyes and pure Grecian nose, together with a firm but most womanly mouth, wreathed frequently in smiles, make up one of the most perfect physiognomies, natural and winning and full of character, yet seen on the stage, or off the stage, for that matter. Miss Juch chatted brightly.

Old Homesteau, great play.

"The play is a perfect museum of city characters, cleverly and clearly drawn, presented naturally and effectively, and with true and abundant humor. The acting had for its leading and most pleasing characteristic a quiet nuturalness, a subpleasing characteristic a quiet nuturalness, a subservience to methods of comedy rather than to that of farce. The rast is excellent from beginning to end, and that is saying a good deal. The piece is effectively staged, especially the scene on the housetops of New York at night, and the scene before the hotel where the men sit smoking in their shirt sleeves, listening to a street musician, are all characters by a faithful realism without exaggeration. Such plays as this, honest, and in a rudely artistic way, successful attempts to hold the mirror up to our daily life, are worth a thousand of the average melo-drama, with its absurdities and exaggerations."—New Haven Union.

John Jones, a negro, was burned to death Mout 7 o'clock a still alarm was sent in t the fire department from the Central road. The laddies responded promptly and discovered the fire in an Illinois Central freight car which was standing on a sidetrack near the Forsyth street crossing.

The door of the car was broken off, and as it dropped to the ground the body of a negro man fell out. The body was drawn away from the car and the fire extinguished.

The car was loaded with hay and had been loaded at Cairo, Ill., and was destined for Savannah.

The coroner's inquest held over the body of Rarclay's undertaking

The coroner's inquest held over the body of the negro at Wylie & Barclay's undertaking establishment developed the facts that he had been employed near the postoffice and that he left here on December 17th to visit some friends in Illinois. He was to return here on the first of the year.

The body was horribly burned, the features distorted and the arms and legs turned in peculiar positions, all expressing the terrible sufferings of the man while roasting to death.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was that the man had been burned to death.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but several theories have been advanced. One is that the negro set fire to the car to burn himself out. There was but a very small space between the hay on which he was lying and the top of the car, and he had been cooped up in the car since it left Cairo on Christmas eve. Another Fire.

The department answered two calls yesteranswered two calls yester-day. The first was about 1:30 o'clock yester-day morning, on Johnson avenue, near the Boulevard. Mr. Mills's Foolish Friends.

If Mr. Mills is as great a man as his friends claim and as we have sometimes thought him to be, the time has arrived for him to show it. He should call a meeting of the partisans who are misrepresenting his purposes and desires and give them a sober cue. He should inform them that he is not the only ardent tariff reformer in the party, and he should give them to understand in the most unmistakable manner that he has never intended it to be understood that his particular plan of bringing about tariff reform is infallible in its conception, or of sufficient importance to create division and dissension among tariff reformers.

If Mr. Mills is really the ardent democrat and patriot we believe him to be, he should make haste to curb the partisanship of his foolish friends, who are not only injuring his reputation, but who are trying to create disaffection among the democrats in congress over a difference of opinion as to the best methods of securing tariff reform. It is charged by some of Mr. Mills's foolish friends that those who do not endorse the Texan's plan of tariff reform are opposed to tariff reform itself, and this charge is very industriously repeated by a few democratic newspapers which do not know enough about the situation to discuss it in-

There is no difference whatever between Mr. Crisp and Mr. Mills as to the necessity of tariff reform, nor is there any difference on that score among the democrats who sup ported these gentlemen. The only difference is as to the programme—the method the policy-most likely to secure tariff re-Sensible men do not quarrel over such differences as these. They are inevitable until the party, in caucus or convention, has settled the matter. They may be worth discussing, but they are not worth fussing over. They are not important enough to create division.

Yet this is the issue which the foolish friends of Mr. Mills are now trying to intrude into democratic councils. He should demonstrate his statesmanship and patriotism by calling them to order and informing them that his defeat will have no more effect on the cause of tariff reform than the defeat of Mr. Cleveland has had. Unless he does this his foolish friends will do him irreparable injury. He never had a better opportunity to show the unselfish character of his democracy.

Growth of Southern Railways.

The New York Financial Chronicle has analyzed the fourth bulletin of the census office on railway statistics in a way that reveals some noteworthy features. The bulletin relates to the operations of railways in the four southern states of Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina, the figures covering the year 1889. The first matter to attract attention concerns the decline in freight rates.

It actually appears that the average per ton per mile was lower in the four southern states than in the middle states, and only slightly above the average of the middle western states. In both the latter two sections the conditions are such as to enforce low rates. The traffic in coal, ore, and other bulky and low-class freights, which will not bear high transportation charges, is very large in those sections, and at the same time the through freight between the west and the seaboard, which likewise has to be carried at low average rates, forms a quite considerable item in the traffic of the lines.

The fact that the average for the middle states figures out somewhat higher than for the middle western, both being subject to much the same conditions, is doubtless owing to the existence of larger centers of population in the middle states, thus giving the lines in those states proportionately greater amounts of general merchandise traffic yielding better rates.

That any group of southern states should show averages on the same level with those of the two sections mentioned, which by reason of density of traffic and the preponderance of the lower class of freight possess special advantages in that respect, is, The Chronicle thinks, a circumstance worth more than a passing notice. The census investigation makes the average for the four southern states only a little over three-quarters of a cent per ton per mile-in exact figures 766 thousandths of a cent-while for the middle states the average is given as 808 thousandths, and for the middle western 684 thousandths.

In the New England states, where there is an absence of the bulky freights, the average per ton per mile is as much as 1,470 thousandths. The change since 1880 has been most remarkable. At that time the average for the four southern states was 1.459 cents, while that for the middle states was 1.044 cents, and for the middle western states 0.892 cent-that is, the average then was 40 per cent higher than for the middle states and over 60 per cent higher than for the middle western stateswhereas now it is lower than the one and but little higher than the other.

The Chronicle thinks it is worth noting, too, that the growth has not been confined to the freight traffic, but is equally marked as regards the passenger traffic. In 1880 the roads in the four southern states transported only 2,628,535 passengers all told; in 1889, on the other hand, they transported nearly nine and a half million sengers. The passenger movement one mile in the same interval rose from 104,-000,000 to 339,000,000. In the instance the ratio of growth is 261 per cent and in the other 226 per cent. This is decidedly heavier than the increase in the other two sections. In the middle states the number of passengers increased only 131 per cent, and the passengers one mile 99 per cent. while in the middle western states the percentages were no more than 99 and 73 respectively.

The rates on the passenger business, like those on freight, have during the decade approached much closer to the averages for the other sections than before. In 1880, while the averages for the middle, the mid dle western and the New England states were respectively 2.232, 2.167 and 2.188 cents per passenger per mile, the average for the four southern states was over three cents (3.024). For 1889, however, with th averages for the middle states 1.995 cents, for the middle western 2.090 cents and for the New England states 1,920 cents, that of the four southern states was not so very much higher, being 2.207 cents.

'Next Year's Cotton Crop.

In a thoughtful editorial on the cotton situation The St. Louis Globe-Democrat look for a reduced acreage and redu yield of cotton next year, but we do not look for it as a result of any agreement among the planter such as is talked of in some of the newspaper the law of demand and supply and therefore impossible of expected fruition. What will produce the shorter acreage and shorter crop will be the direct application of the law of demand and supply in this way: Most of the planters of the south are compelled every year to borrow mone to make their cotton crops. This they do by a practical mortgage of the cotton before it is an inch out of the ground. When they ask for cash advances next year they will be told that it will not pay to lend money on an article which will not bring in the markets the cost of its production. So long as cotton could be raised at 7 cents a pound and sold for 10 cents a pound the money lender had a good margin of security for his loan. But at present prices this margin disappears, and leaves a very big risk to the lender. Hence the difficulty of raising money will curtail the pro-duction of cotton next year. It will be a great year for planters who are not obliged to borrow but unfortunately these are few in proportion t

We are inclined to believe that our cotton output will be reduced next year, but it will not be entirely on account of the inability of the planters to obtain their usual credit with the merchants. The planters themselves will see that it does not pay to raise cotton at less than the cost of production, and they will be more careful than ever about going in debt. They will borrow less money, and buy fewer plantation supplies. They will devote more attention to food crops, and their main reason for planting cotton will be their desire to have a money crop that will satisfy the merchants who ar their creditors.

We look for no big reduction, but the evil of overproduction is plainly so disastrous that the necessity of the case will urge farmers to extend their small grain crops, and this fact alone will naturally curtail cotton production.

The merchants and capitalists can encour age and help this good work, but they are not going to shut down on the farmers at present. The creditor classes will be able to get their money out of the farmers by pushing them to the wall, even when cotton is low, and they know it only too

What we need is a general agreement all round. If the merchants and farmers will pull together for a smaller cotton crop it will pan out well for all.

A Step Forward.

Now, that the New England cotton mills have worked off their old stock, their owners are thinking about enlarging their fac tories or building new ones. The Boston Advertiser doubts the wisdom of such a course and sounds this note of warning:

If there must be new mills built either in Fall River or elsewhere in New England, the wisdom too forcibly impressed upon those who are in-trusted with the disposition of the machinery fund and the shaping of the policy of such un-dertakings. The demand for such products is growing year by year, and if it shall but keep pac with the progress which the south is making in the manufacture of the coarser grades of which New England is making too much now, this section will have nothing to fear if her mill owners but accommodate themselves to the new condi tions of the industry and the trade Commenting on this paragraph, The New Orleans Times-Democrat advises New England to abandon cotton manufactures altogether. And, if the market for the coarser grades is so overstocked nearly every year, it would be well, suggests our New Orleans contemporary, for the south to abandon this field, and try the manufacture of the finer fabrics in which there is a larger profit. The south will not long confine herself to yarns, sheetings, etc. She has every advantage in her favor for the manufacture of finer goods, and the skilled labor is easily obtainable.

Why not take a step forward? The south is the natural home of the cotton mill, and it is an economic absurdity to allow it to re main in New England.

Diamonds in Georgia.

In a recent interview with a Chattanoogs Times reporter, Mr. John W. Warde, a New York importer and cutter of diamonds, remarked that he would not be surprised at any time to hear of diamonds being found in paying quantities in this country. He said that a few of these precious stones had already been found in Georgia, and as the geological formation of the state is almost identical with that of the best diamond pro ducing districts of the world, he is satisfied that large quantities of the gems will some day be found here.

It is more than likely that Mr. Warde is right. Dr. Stephenson found diamonds in Hall county years ago, and experts who have traveled in many lands are confident that many more will be picked up in north Georgia.

Strange things happen every day, and it may be that our diamond fields will yet rival those of Brazil and Africa. The effect of a sudden discovery can hardly be imagined. The rush to the fortunate localities would beat anything ever known in our history. It would equal the gold fever of California and Australia.

But we are not picking up this glitter-ing wealth just at present. It is somewhere n the future-perhaps centuries distant. For the present we must make the most of less valuable stones—granite and marble, for instance. We have gold and iron, too, and sides those we have a productive soil that will richly reward the judicious labor of our Work Is the Thing.

Colonel Bob Ingersoll said to a young man the other day: "Any man can be fair lawyer, if he has an ordinary amount of brains, and is willing to work."

This remark applies to almost every pro fession and industry. Application-concentrated energy-persistent work will make a man successful and cause him to be re garded as a genius.

Dickens summed up the whole business in the one word, "attention." He used to tell young men that the secret of good writing was attention. "Give the matter your at tention," he said, "and you will succeed."

This is what Ingersoll means when he speaks of the results of work. There is no very great difference in the natural mental capacity of the mass of mankind. The average man who has success always in view, and works untiringly for it, will get there, unless extraordinary obstacles or misfortunes stand in his way.

The most successful financiers, merchants, artisans, farmers and professional men started at the bottom of the ladder and worked their way up.

It is true in the highest sense that worth makes the man, but it is equally true, in a strictly business sense, that work makes the

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

A CENTRAL AMERICAN newspaper tells of a ma living in San Paulo, Brazil, who is considerable over a hundred years old and who is growing young again. He has recently grown a new set of teeth, and his hair, which had turned gray, is no almost black again. He is in active business as horse trader, and occasionally he rides over ten leagues in a day. He has been married three times, is now a widower and is quite wealthy. The paper casually remarks in the course of its story that the old man suffered greatly at one time with a tumer, "but this was cured by being gored by an ox."

WHETHER SUDDEN joy often kills anybody may be doubted, but the sudden acquisition of mone is probably at least as apt to prove fatal a is probably at least as apt to prove fatal as typhoid fever or diphtheria. The case of the young man in Minnesota who heard the other day of his accession to a barony and a fortune, and, receiving a remittance of $5,000, incontinently began a debauch, which ended in a few days with his death, proves the danger of an attack of sudden wealth on a weak character. The risk is great, but few would be wise enough to pray to be delivered forever from such a chance.

THE BOYS GATHER

For the National Council of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

IT WILL CONVENE THIS MORNING

With an Address of Welcome in the Senate Chamber by Mr. H. H. Cabaniss.

All day yesterday the delegates to Sigma Alpha Epsilon's convention poured into At anta, and big delegations are expected on all the trains this morning.

The delegates are not limited from any section, in fact, those representing the chapter with were the first to arrive. The Georgia and Alabama delegates will arrive today. The boys spent Sunday about the corridors of the Kamball, exchanging the grip and getting acquainted. In the morning they attended the First Baptist, and at night the First Methodist churches. A party visited some of the battle-fields about the city in the afternoon.

This morning, at 10 o'clock, the convention will be opened in the senate chamber by ar welcome from Mr. H. H. Cabaniss. Mr. John G. Capers, the executive head of the order, will respond in behalf of the visi-tors. After that the fraternity songs will be sung. Then a permanent chairman will be elected, the various committees will be appointed, and the convention will get down to solid work.

The local committee of reception earnestly asks every S. A. E. in Atlanta, who can attend the opening exercises, to be present. They eeded to welcome the visitors, and help make them at home while in Atlanta.

There will be morning and afternoon sessions, and perhaps one at night. Some very important business is to come before the convention, such as the election of officers, the consideration of applications for charters, the establishment of a secret bulletin, the publication of a catalogue and song book, so it is likely this convention will be emphatically one of business.

The banquet will occur Wednesday night. It will be given by the Atlanta alumnus chapter to the visitors.

An open invitation is extended to S. A. E. nen all over the state to attend. Visitors who expect to be present at the banquet are asked to notify Hooper Alexander 201, East Alabama street as soon as possible.

One session of the convention will be of literary character. Mr. John D. Mell, of Athens, will deliver the oration; Mr. H. Cowan, of Pittsburg, the palm, and Mr. W. J. Andrews, of Wilmington, N. C., the essay.

Most likely these exercises will be public. The arrivals so far are as follows: John G. Capers, executive officer of S. A. E., Green-ville, S. C.; H. H. Cowan, editor of The Record, Pittsburg, Pa.; V. L. Johnston, Allegheny college; J. D. Bellamy and A. B. Andrews, University of North Carolina; H. R. Murchison, Davidson college; William Weston, University of South Carolina; D. W. Daniel, Wofford college; G. M. Horton, Pittsburg alumni; E. D. McCafferty, Adrian college; G. P. McMillan remained in the station house Satureay night, Sunday and last night.

Yesterday scores of his friends besieged the office of the station house, but only a select few were permitted to pass the grated door and converse with him.

Several efforts were made by his friends to secure his release, but Chief Connolly stated that he could not release the prisoner until alwarrant had been sworn out and McMillan duly examined before a justice of the peace and the amount of bail fixed.

Captain English, chairmaniof the police commission was then appealed to but, declined to have anything whatever to do in the matter, as he did not want to interfere with the business of the chief of police.

All yesterday his friends sent him packages of cigars, fruits and his meals. Everything possible was done to make the hours of his incarceration pass lightly and swiftly over his head.

Much sympathy was expressed for the woman, who is far from her home and friends, among strangers in a strange land, wholly dependent upon the sympathy of a few casual

As the commandery entered, headed by the Eminent Commander H. C. Stockdell, esc ing the rector of St. Philip's, Dr. Tupper, who is himself a Knight Templar, the congregation rose and remained standing until the knights were seated near the chancel.

Yesterday was St. John the Evangelist's Day and the services at St. Philip's were complimentary to the commandery.

Both the Saints John, the Baptist and the Evangelist, are patron saints of the Masonic fraternity and all Masonic buildings are dedicated to the holy Saints John as they are con-secrated to God. Saint John, the Baptist's day falls on June 24th, while the Evangelist's lay is December 27th.

After the usual exercises, the rector, Dr. Tupper delivered an address on "Templar-ism," which is one of the highest branches of Freemasonry.

The masonry of the Master Mason dates back to Solomon and the building of the temple at Jerusalem, a thousand years before the Christian era.

The order of Knights Templar was founded 1119 A. D. It was an offshoot of the Knights of Malta and its primary object was to protect pilgrims and crusaders. During the crusades the order flourished, as indeed did all the chivalric orders. But the crusades over, the church and temporal rulers became jealous of the wealth and power of the secret orders. Pope Clement V. and Philip the Fair, king of France, made a fight on the Knight Templar, seized their property, arrested their grand master and burned him at the stake in Paris, March 18, 1313. So severe was the on-slaught that the order was suppressed, but not stamped out. Some knights fled to Germany and incorporated themselves with the Knight of St. Mary. In England and Scotland and Ireland the persecution was severe, but the fires of templarism were not wholly extin-which followed the reformation, the order revived.

During the first two centuries of its existence the order nursed in their hospitals, sick and wounded pilgrims and crusaders, defended the virtue of maideus, protected children and women, relieved suffering and cultivated the spirit of chivalry. Now its mission is to elevate humanity, rebuke bigotry, cultivate honor among men and esteem for virtue; templarism honors the great Redeemer and reconciles brother to brother. It protects the helpiess, binds up the wounds of the suffering. helpless, binds up the wounds of the suffering-alleviates the ills of life. The true templar is a soldier of the cross—traveling on the level of time to that undiscovered country from whose home no traveler ever returns. Templarism has been an important factor in the advancement of civilization.

The music was excellent and the address and services were unusually interesting.

THINKS HE HAS FOUND ERRORS Which Will Play Havoc with the Work of the Legislature.

Columbus, Ga., December 27.—[Special]—Ex-Speaker Louis F. Garrard, in a communication to The Enquirer-Sun, has made what that paper calls "a startling discovery" in regard to certain proposed amendments of the last legislature. One of these amendments is that in regard to limiting the sessions of the legislature to fifty days. After a mathematical calculation of the time lost in organization, the deduction of Sundays and the usual holidays, the appointment of the speaker's committees, the election of judges and solicitors and all the necessary work preparatory to legislation, Mr. Garrard says:

Suppose an election for United States senator occurs, this would add from one to two days more, making sixteen days, lost time, I should not say lost time, because this work has to be done, and has never taken a shorter time than the time I mentioned. The figures I give above, I think, are inside figures. We will suppose that sixteen days are substracted from fifty days, and it would leave thirty-four days to be devoted to the legislative work of this state, whose needs are growing yearly and whose laws should the Legislature.

days, and it would leave thirty-four days to be dayouted to the legislative work of this state, whose needs are growing yearly and whose laws should be carefully considered. In the constitution of 1877 no bill can become a law in less than seven days if it was not considered in the committee, and allowing three days for the consideration of the committee, ten days is a reasonably short time for any law to pass the general assembly without opposition. Should any great question arise involving the rights of the people on the one side and corporations on the other, with only thirty-four days to consider the same, and the legislature evenly divided, or nearly so, business could be so obstructed as to cause the session to expire by constitutional limitation, and the measure sought to be passed would fail. On the other hand, obstructive tactics would hardly be used if it was known that the legislature could, by continuing the session, have the necessary length of time to consider and finish all the questions of importance before it. It is very common to abuse the legislature for waste of time. It was generally supposed that the last legislature would shorten the time down to about forty days, but when they got to work they found it impossible, and no doubt did the best they could.

Continuing, the writer says that if the printed copy of these constitutional amendments as it appears on page 56 of the Actual 1890-91 is correct, then a signal error has been made in its passage, and adds:

1890-91 is correct, then a signal error has been ments as it appears on page 56 of the Act 1890-91 is correct, then a signal error has been made in its passage, and adds:

The bill purports to amend article 2, section 4, paragraph 6 of the constitution of this state. By examination of the constitution it will be seen that article 2, section 4 contains no such paragraph as the one sought to be amended. Doubtless the author of the bill intended to refer to article 3 of the constitution. If this is a mistake, then the same mistake occurs in both section 1 and section 2 of the act. I hardly think the suprems court will aid the legislature in this dilemma by quessing at what it meant. There are two acts of the legislature purporting to amend this same article 2, section 4, paragraph 3 of the constitution, the one which I have been considering, and another providing for annual sessions for the general assembly. This last act in the first section refers to the constitution of 187, when it is doubted in three places in said act it refers to article 3, section 4, paragraph 3, which is clearly wrong. Both of these acts say that the voters shall have inscribed on their tickets, ratification, of against ratification, without saying what the proposes to ratify, and as both of these acts will be reconstitution of these acts will be reconstituted the propose to ratify, and as both of these acts will be reconstituted the propose to ratify, and as both of these acts will be reconstituted. nave inscribed on their tickets, ratification, or, against ratification, without saying what they propose to ratify, and as both of these acts will be under consideration at the same time it would be hard to tell which act the voter intends to vote for in case he only votes for one of these acts, unless the governor should find some way to assist him out of his trouble.

AN INTERESTING SERVICE.

The Last Meeting of the Year at the Y. M. C.

There was a most interesting service at the Young Men's Christian Association lecture

It was attended by quite a number of young men, and was led by Mr. Henry B. Mays.

The service was made doubly interesting from the fact thatit was the last neeting of the year. Mr. Mays made a very appropriate talk in opening the meeting, giving many reasons why all should feel thankful for the many blessing receivedg.

Many valuable lessons have been learned; many blessings received; many mercles shown, for which we should all feel profoundly grateful.

After these opening remarks, many other young men followed on the same lines, briefly. The service was interspersed with delightful music, which made it doubly entertaining.

HEIR FIRST SERMONS

New Pastors of the Methodist Churches Preach Yesterday.

ROBBINS AT THE FIRST CHURCH,

w. Mr. Bell at St. Paul's, Rev. Mr. Parks at Bishop Hendrix Mission-Other Church Services Yesterday.

The pulpit at the First Methodist was occu-pied for the first time yesterday morning by the new paster, Rev. J. B. Rebbins. The minister gave an excellent sermon and heldsthe closest attention of the congregation.

He is a fluent, earnest, forcible talker, and sily impresses a hearer with what he has to

Dr. Robbins created a decidedly favorable impression, and his eloquent sermon was re-plete with interest. The text was Mark x,32: p before them and they were amazed, and st they followed they were afraid."
"Tenderness," he said, "is illustrated by every mother in Christendom; courage, by every hero in the world. To the one we give garlands; to the other we erect monuments. Each is great in his own way and sphere. Both of them were combined in the character than Lord.

"It is easy for a man to be brave when popuholds him in his place. But, oh, how ard it is to be brave and true when one has not a friend in the world, when there is no cheer-ing word, when one absolutely stands alone. My Lord knew that it was his last trip to Jerusalem. The people knew that for Him to say where He was meant safety; they knew, if He went, what the results would be.

"There is the right sort of courage. want you as a congregation to be kinder, have and true. I ask you then to do two of the best things we find in the Bible. hold. One finds a ladder and by it lifts him-elf up on a higher plane. Then he picks up the ladder and looking down upon his brother, apity for that sort of thing to be in the year 1891. The true sympathizer not only takes the ladder to the one below apity for that sort of thing to be in the year 1891. The true sympathizer not only takes the ladder to the one below, but goes down, takes him by the hand and elevates him to a higher plane. I think the durch is responsible for every member who goes astray, and the reason is a lack of tenderness. We need courage for church work and Inever saw the time when we needed more. "There are times when a man has no company; there are days when there is no music to him; there are hours when no gladness is on his way, there are times when there are no helpers and darkness seems about to close in. God has placed in you, the architect—to build your future home. You need courage—enough is say 'no' when a thing is wrong, and yes' when a thing is right.

"If I can only be tender and true I will be attisfied; if I can only see Christ in the work I have to do I will be satisfied; if my Lord is always uppermost in my thoughts I will be attisfied. Today is a new year. May the Lord bless you and me. May he make me tender as my mother, who taught me the first lesson of tenderness; tender as my Lord to discharge.

Bishop Hendrix Mission.

Bishop Hendrix Mission.

At Bishop Hendrix mission the services ere very impressive yesterday. Rev. William L. Parks, formerly a presiding elder of the orth Georgia district, conducted his first sertices as pastor, and he was greeted by a large and attentive congregation. ntive congregation.

Dr. Parks spoke very eloquently, and showed at the conference made a happy stroke in iacing him over such a growing mission, one much in need of an active and earnest minter, such as it has had.

Dr. Parks spoke on Paul, x, 33: "Now, arefere, are we all here present before God bear all things that are commanded thee of lod."

"Peter." he said, "preached Christianity to lemelius and his company. The people assubded largely and with attention heard the capel, all of which God had commanded to e done. Peter blessed them with abundance, reaching truth and light.

"Just so am I sent to do, and with God's mee so may I do. When Peter preached, he Holy Ghost influenced the minds of the cople so as to lead them to glorify God. I m now in the position in which Peter was ad in that way shall I try to guide myself."

The sermon was an excellent one. After a services it was announced that all were writed to greet the new pastor, and the entire magregation met him and an old-fashioned andshaking was held.

Christian Church.

Christian Church.

Christian Church.

The sermon at the Christian church yesterday one of more than usual power and purpose, at yet the pastor, Mr. C. P. Williamson, began it tilt very commonpiace practical ideas. His text as "How much owest thou?" He said settle up the watch word in business circles now at this is wise. It takes a brave man to the question fairly and honestly; but so long an honest man has more than he owes he is a vest man and he will meet the demands. In a superior of the common through the common and he had the that the came to day the meessage that "the insolvency you and I are fear most is moral and spiritual insolvency."

That in the buniness affair of the soul no man can be your security!

He said there are many differing debts. He deprecated the phrase debts of honor" and knew not why it had gained such signification.

There are those w o accept thought, reason, and sight, and the countless blessings of life as their own simply by right of possession.

He asked: "If you are not good, why not?" and answered: "There are men in Atlanta today sueering at the church, and finding fault with Christianity, when, if they were to take the churches and Christians out of her midst, fair Atlanta would sink into deepest oblivion, instead of having her praises sung around the world, as she now has, for her good deeds and sweet charity this happy Christmas—tide. He defined the church to be not a hospital for the dead and the dying; not an ark, as Noah's, to be used only in the rain and the flood; not a life-saving station only, but a bee-hive for busy workers and the preparation for the life to come.

He had heard men say "the world owes me a

the world."
His own heart had reproached him when he read in THE CONSTITUTION or The Journal how that woman whose body had been crushed under moving car woeels had been borne to the grave with three people to follow, and no minister of God at hand. Deprayed as she might have been, of the world as she was, he would have gone had he known.

hand. Deprayed as she might have been of the world as she was, he would have gone had he known.

"There are men before me today," he said, 'who have made their wills. Each one reads: I will to pay all my just debts.' To you, this means your financial debts; does it mean no more than this to God? If all the just debts of all the men who make wills were paid, would there be so much suffering in our midst today? God help us to pay our just debts! How much owest thou?"

At the close of his sermon, Mr. Williamson spoke with deep feeling of the many kindnesses shown to him by his church through the happy holidays. He felt, after reviewing his life, that this Christmas tide in Atlanta had been the happiest of all; and he wished, then, because he had not dared trust himself to speak before the sermon, to thank his dear people who had bound him so closely to themselves. Through all the glad surprises of the week, he had askedhimself "what will Sunday bring," and as is his usual custom, he "opened the door of the church" and his heart was still more filled with glad joy while five of the young people of his flock came forward to confess Christ, and enter upon a new year of service for the Savior.

First Presbyterian.

It was appropriate to the Christmas season, and a Christmas serion was delivered. The floral decorations delicately suggested the season, and the music was specially prepared.

Dr. Barnett preached an able and impressive sermon from the subject of "The Incarnation," which held the attention of the large congregation throughout its delivery.

A special programme of music, splendidry rendered, added to the excellence of the service.

Central Presbyterian. The pulpit of the Central Presbyterian church was occupied yesterday morning by the pastor, Dr. G. B. Strickler. He spoke upon Luke XVII, 10: "The Son of Man has come into the world to save

"The Son of Man has come into the world to save that which was lost."

The pastor said that there were some singular facts concerning the observance of Christmas; that it was not the real birthday of the Savior, masmuch as the correct day was not known. Christ considered his death, not his birth the important event. Had He thought the latter important, He would have made it known accurately. The Savior did not think the day a holy one, but considered the Sabbath the time for religious service.

First Baptist Church.

There was a special Christmas service at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. The congregation was one of the largest ever assembled in the church. Special Christmas music was rendered by the choir, assisted by Profossor Wurm's orchestra. The selections were grand, the oratorios by the combined voices, orchestra and organ being of rare beauty and effect.

Dr. Hawthorne preached one of the ablest sermons of his life. His text was from I John, 1, 1, 2:

"That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled of the word of life."

This passage contains a number of declarations concerning the Lord Jesus Christ.

1. He is eternal. "That which was from the beginning." Years before John had announced the same dectrine in his gospel: "In the beginning was the word, and the word was with God, and the word was God." In the close of this epistle he says of Christ: "This is the true God and eternal life."

He is the cternal Son of God. But here we are bewildered and baffled. We cannot define charity, because it lies beyond the horizon of our little, limited life. My faculties cannot measure it; my words cannot express it; my soul stands hushed and awe-stricken before the ineffable mystery. The more we think, the more the wonder grows. One thing, however, is clear. One conclusion we are bound to accept. Whatever is eternal must be divine. Whatever is before all things must be the cause of all things. If Christ is from everlasting to everlasting, He is God.

2. This eternal Son of God took upon Him a material form. John saw Him, heard Him, and handled Him. "The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us."

Unitarianism is comparatively a modern growth, but, before the last of the apostles fell asleep, men

dwelt among us."

Unitarianism is comparatively a modern growth, but, before the last of the apostles fell asleep, men began to question the humanity of Christ. They tried to believe that He was human only in appearance—that what was called "the man Christ-Jesus" was material in appearance, but immaterial in reality. It was the attempt of false teachers to repudiate the doctrine of the incarnation that drew from the Apostle John the cloquent words of our text. When we read these words let us remember that they were backed by minety years of pure, unselfish, heroic and godly life; that they are the words of a man whom wealth could not bribe nor despotism intimidate; the words of a veteran ninety years of pure, unselfish, heroic and godly life; that they are the words of a man whom wealth could not bribe nor despotism intimidate; the words of a veteran leaning on his staff, and conscious that his next step must be into his grave and the presence of his God.

I can see in imagination the venerable hero, surrounded by the multitude, and pouring a torreut of argument and eloquence upon those who had questioned the reality of Christ's humanity. I imagine I hear him say, "Men and brethren, I am feeble and tottering now, but time was when I was a match for the best of you. I can scacrely lift the heavy and half-palsied feet, but time was when I was a match for the best of you. I can scacrely lift the heavy and half-palsied feet, but time was when I was a match for the best of you. I can scacrely lift the heavy and half-palsied feet, but time was when I could outrun Peter. My voice is feeble now, but time was when they called me a son of thunder. Sixty years ago, when these gray locks were dark, I leaned upon the breast of that man about whom you are disputing. I felt the throbbing of his human heart. I looked up into His human face, and saw its smiles and its tears. I heard his human woice. I felt the pressure of His human hand. For three years I was with Him. I journeyed with Him from village to village, and from house to house. I ate with Him and slept when He slept. I saw all that He did, and heard all that He said. I sat down with Him at the last meal of which He partook before He died. I saw them lead Him out of the city to the place of execution. I followed Him there. I saw Him stretched on the cross, I saw the blood as it trickled from His pierced hands and feet. In the midst of His agony He fixed His eyes on me. Never can I torget that look. He spoke to me and said, 'Son, behold thy mother.' I saw His last gasp, heard His last word. Three days after His burial, when we were so sad, thinking that we should never see His dear face again, He suddenly appeared in the midst of us. Oh, how we were fr

Church of the Redeemer. There was a good audience and an excellent selection of music yesterday. Dr. Sherrili preached in the morning. The text was Luke II, 10: "Behold I bring you good tidings." They

1. To the workingman. Christ, by his example and words, raised the working man to selfample and words, raised the working man to self-respect, and so to others' respect. His teachings alone can bring capital and labor together, and give to the world's workers more of the world's wealth, to the producers more of the product.

2. To the home. He raised the home to its present meaning and worth by living in one "full of grace and truth." If He should enter yours, would he find order and thrift, peace and good will? Do you read His word, call on His name, do the things He says? These are more than architecture and puholstery. The happiest home ever on this earth was so, not because of wealth, or learning, but because Christ dwelt in it.

3. To the schools. Outside of caristendom there has never been any good system of popular education. By His teachings, life and death, he wonderfully opened and stimulated the intellect of the world.

4. To the sinner. He did not come to declare the guilt and wages of sin, but a deliverance therefrom. "He shall save the people from their sins." That is the good news. He not only forgives the past, but "He breaks the reigning power of sin." Come to him with your thraiden. He will give you the liberty wherewith Christ maketh free.

At the close opportunity was offered to provide for the current expenses of next year. This was very successfully conducted.

Recent experiments as read before the last Congress of Surgeons at Berlin, leave no doubt that the true way to CLEAR THE SYSTEM OF MICROBI is through the pores of the skin. It has been found that a remedy which kills the Microbi will also destroy the life of the patient; but it has also been found that the Microbi can be forced out through the skin, and it is in this way that relieves the system of poison.

At Merritts Avenue.

The Christmas services at Merritts avenue were largely attended yesterday.

Rev. J. R. Branham was present and made a very feeling prayer at the opening of the service.

The music was specially arranged for the occasion, and was rendered by Mrs. Feel, Rice, Jackson and Miss Glenn, and Messrs. Burbank, Wheeler, Garfield and Shewmaker.

Dr. Hopkins preached an able and eloquent sermon on the Savior's birth, taking as his text St. Luke II: 15 and 16.

The Christmas tree was booked for tomorrow night at the hall on Decatur street, and every preparation had been made for it. Mrs. Brittain has decided to postpone it until Thursday night, when it will be given in grand style.

"I am sorry," said Mrs. Brittain, yesterday, "to have to postpone the tree, but I cannot do therwise. I want the boys to understand that I am not neglecting them because I postpone it, but it will be all the better for the longer time given me to prepare for it."

A splendid tree will be secured and covered with presents for the boys of the club. Weather Reports, Several members of the police department were remembered with handsome presents.

Chief Connolly received a barrel of the finest oysters seen in Atlanta this season from his father-in-law, Mr. J. G. Butler, of Savannah. The chief treated a number of his friends to oyster suppers from his supply. He also received from the Gamewell Fire and Police Alarm Company a box of fine cigars. Chief of Detectives Couch received a fine box of cigars from the Gamewell company. The members of the detective force presented their chief with a large fruit cake baked to order. ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

President Green Presented With a Cane. The Drummers' Bank Discussed-A Concert and Elegant Banquet.

The Southern Travelers' Association and the drummers of Atlanta held a rousing meeting at their rooms in the Old Capitol Saturday

It was the local branches' annual meeting, and Charley Branan and his committee succeeded royally in their effort to make the affair a splendid one in every way. It was an eventful occasion, and the largest number of drummers that ever assembled at the rooms was present to reap the enjoyment of it.

It was business first and the association proceeded with the election. It resulted as follows:

President, John M. Green Secretary and treasurer, D. H. Browder. First vice president, Louis Wellhouse. Second vice president, W. C. Holleyman.

Third vice president, Emil Frank.
Directors—George W. Brooks, L. Licherman, H. L. Atwater, R. C. Cashman, W. R. Allen and C. I. Branan.

The elections were all unanimous. When they had concluded, Mr. George Allen advanced to Mr. Green and presented him with an unusually elegant gold-headed cane, a token of the association's es-teem for their efficient president. Mr. Allen's speech was an appropriate and splendid one in every way. Mr. Green assured the members of his sincerest appreciation and his desire to be of service to their Cashier A. L. Kontz, representing the Drummers' bank, was next called upon and he pictured the bright financial future of this prospective institution and showed its value to the commercial men.

Mr. Charles I. Branan and Mr. George P. Allen also spoke, and then Wurm's orchestra gave several selections. Mr. C. W. Kay and Professor William Owens rendered solos in an exquisite manner, and they were loudly applauded.

Mr. H. H. Cabaniss and Judge E. C. Kontz gave talks that were well timed and both was very favorably received.

The flow of merriment and good

The flow of merriment and good humor continued, and while it was going on Charley Branan and his staff of workers succeeded in enrolling the names of more than thirty associate members, giving the membership a substantial increase.

The affair was an informal one. The rooms of the Travelers' Club were thrown open, and in the hall without an elegan' spread was set, to which all repaired. Four negroes, with old time songs and music, with banjos and fiddles to match, entertained the diners.

Iz Hirschberg and Tom Jackson, with their accustomed good nature, gave an exhibition of clog dancing, and then a jig to the accompaniment of the banjos. With the feast the even ing's entertainment came to a close.

One and all voted it an affair delightful in svery way. The Southern Travelers' Association certainly entertained their many guests well.

The cure for colds must be "short and decisive." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup fills the bill.

A PROFESSIONAL BURGLAR

Run In by the Police Authorities of Griffin.

Friday night while J. P. Nichols and family were attending a Christmas tree at the Baptist church, burglars entered their house, stealing various articles. Tuesday morning Mr. Nichols left a description of the stolen goods with the police, who were not long in spotting an ebouyhued son of Ham sporting Mrs. Nichols's fine gold-headed umbrella, which had her name on it. The sport's name was George Pollard, and when searched at the station house Mr. Nichols's pistol was found. Later a haul was made on George's "private boudoir," and to the astonishment of the officers they found a lot of silver spoons that were stolen from Charles McFarland about twelve months ago, and another lot which were missed last week. Nor was this all. They found the Bible which was stolen from the Episcopal church a short time ago. When confronted with evidences of his guilt, the hardened rascal smillingly said he had stolen a Bible and pistol and if he had been let alone a short time he would have completed his outfit with a deck of cards and gone to preaching,

The black window shutters of a December eight were thrown open, and some of the best angers of a world where they all sing stood there, and putting back the drapery of cloud, chanted a peace anthem, until all the echoes of hill and valley applauded and encored the hallelujah chorus. Behold, in the first place, that on the first night of Christ's life, God honored the brute creation. You cannot get into that Bethlehem ham without going past the camels, the mules, the dogs, the oxen. The brutes of that stable heard the first cry of the infant Lord. Some of the old painters represent the oxen and camels kneeling that night before the newborn babe. And well might they kneel! Have you ever thought that Christ came among other things, to alleviate the sufferings of the brute creation? Was it not appropriate that He should, during the first few days and nights of His life on earth, be surrounded by the dumb beasts, whose moan and plaint and bellowing have for ages been a prayer to God for the arresting of their tortures and the righting of their wrongs? It did not merely "happen so" that the unintelligent creatures of God should have been that night in close beighborhood.

Not a kennel in all the centuries, not a kird's nest, not a worn-out horse on tow-path, were head feaching in the poorly built cow.

sen, not a freight car in summer time bringing the beeves to market without water through a thousand miles of agony, not a surgeon's room vitnessing the struggles of fox, or rabbit, or pigeon, or dog, in the horrors of vivisection, but has an interest in the fact that Christ was born in a stable, surrounded by brutes. He semembers[that]night, and the prayer_He heard in their pitiful moan, He will answer in the fund brutes. They surely have as much right in this world as we have. In the first chapter of Genesis you may see that they were placed on the earth before man was, the fish and fowl created the fith day, and the quadrupeds the morning of the sixth day, and man not until the afternoon of that day. The whale, the eagle, the lion, and all the Jesser creatures of their kind were predecessors of the human family. They have the world by right of possession. They have also paid rent for the places they occupied. What an army of defense all over the land are the faithful watch dogs. And who can tell what the world owes to the horse, and eamel, and ox, for transportation? And moin and lark have, by the cantata with which they have filled orchard and forest, more han paid for the few grains they have picked up for their sustenance. When you abuse any creature of God you trike its Creator, and you insult the Christ rho, though he might have been welcomed

When you abuse any creature of God you trike its Creator, and you insult the Christ who, though he might have been welcomed into life by princes, and taken his first infantile slumber amid Tyrian plush and canopied conches, and rippling waters from royal aqueducts dripping into basins of ivory and pearl, those to be born on a level with a cow's horn, or a camel's hoof, or a dog's nostril, that He might be the alleviation of animal suffering as well as the Redeomer of man.

Standing then, as I imagine now I do, in that Bethlehem night with an infant Christ on the one side and the speechless treatures of God on the other, I cry, look eat, how you strike the rowel into that horse's side. Take off that curbed bit from that bleeding mouth. Remove that saddle from that taw back. Shoot not for fun that bird that is too small for food. Forget not to put water into the cage of that causary. Throw all some crumbs to those birds caught too far north in the winter's inclemency. Arrest that man who is making that one horse draw a load heavy enough for three. Rush in upon that scene where boys are torturing a cat, or ransfixing butterfly and grasshopper. Drive lost off that old relyer for heavers, a nech.

man who is making that one horse draw a lead heavy enough for three. Rush in upon that scene where boys are torturing a cat, or mansixing butterfly and grasshopper. Drive not off that old robin, for her nest is a mother's cradle, and under her wing there may be three or four musicians of the sky in training. In your families and in your schools, teach the coming generation more mercy, than the present generation has ever shown, and in this marvelous Bible picture of the Nativity, while you point out to them the angel, show them also the camel, and while they hear the cleastal chain, let them also hear the cow's mean. No more did Christ show interest in the botanical world, when he said, "Consider he Illies," than he showed sympathy for the mithological when he said, "Behold the fowls of the air." and the quadrupedal world when he allowed himself to be called in one lise a liou, and in another place a lamb. Isamwhile, may the Christ of the Bethlehem title-pen have mercy on the suffering stocknowled, also, in this Bible scene, how, on last Christmas night. God honored childhood. Christ might have made his first visit to our world in a cloud, as he will descend on his sativist in a cloud. In what a chariot of flumined vapor he might have rolled down he sky, escorted by mounted cavalry, with his might a cloud as the the three of fire to take him up; why not Jesus carriage of fire to take him up; why not Jesus carriage of fire to fetch him down? Or, wer the arched bridge of a rainbow the Lord night have descended. Or Christ might have had his mortality built up on arth out of the dust of a garden, as was sham, in full manhood at the the start, withat the introductory feebleness of infancy. No, all Childhood was to be honored by that went. He must have a child's light limbs, and a child's finpled hand, and a child's ming eye, and a child's flaxen hair; and bytood was to be honored for all time to me, and a cradle was to mean more than a was land, if they have a child's flaxen hair; and bytood was to be honored for al anough have all those fathers and mothers and if they have a child in the house. of great value, but when He wants to give the richest possible gift to a household, He looks around all the worlds and all the universe and then gives a child. The greatest present that God ever gave our world, he gave about eighteen hundred and ninetyone years ago, and he gave it on a Christmas night, and it was of such value that heaven adjourned for a recess and came down Christmas night, and it was of such value that heaven adjourned for a recess and came down and broke through the clouds to look at it. Yea, in all ages God has honored childhood. He makes almost every picture a failure unless there be a child either playing on the floor, or looking through the window, or seated on the lap, gazing into the face of the mother. It was a child in Naaman's kitchen that told the great Strike was a child in Naaman's kitchen that told derman and French and Italian and Spanish and English pronounce it differently, they are all namesakes of the one whom we find on a led of straw, with her pale face against the soft cheek of Christ in the night of the Nativity. All the great painters have tried, on canvas, to present Mary and her child and the heldents of that most famous night of the world's history. Raphael, in three different masterpieces, celebrated them. Tintoretto and Chrizandajo surpassed themselves in the adoration of the magt. Correggio needed to do nothing mare than his Madonna to become immortal. The Madonna of the Lily, by Leonardo da Vinci, will kindle the admiration of all ages. But all the galleries of Dresden are torgotten when I think of the small room of that gallery containing the Sistine Madonna. Yet all of them were copies of St. Matthew's Madonna, and Luke's Madonna, the inspired Madonna of the Old Book, which we had put into our hands when we were infants, and that we hope to have under our heads when we die.

Behold, in the first place, that on the first night of Christ's life, God honored the brute creation. You cannot get into that Bethlehem lan without going past the camels, the mules, It was a child in Naaman's Ritchen that told the great Syrian warrior where he might go and get cured of the leprosy, which at his seventh plunge in the Jordan, was left at the bottom of the river. It was to the cradle of leaves, in which a child was laid, rocked by the Nile, that God called the attention of history. It was a sick child that evoked Christ's curative asympathies. It was a child that the Nile, that God called the attention of history. It was a sick child that evoked Christ's curative sympathies. It was a child that Christ set in the midst of the squabbling disciples to teach the lesson of humility. We are informed that wolf and leopard and lion shall be yet so domesticated that a little child shall lead them. A child decided Waterloo, showing the army of Blucher how they could take a short cut through the fields, when, if the old road had been followed, the Prussian general would have come up too late to save the destinies of Europe. It was a child that decided Gettysburg, he having overheard two confederate generals in a conversation, in which they decided to march for Gettysburg instead of Harrisburg; and this, reported to Governor Curtain, the federal forces started to meet their opponents at Gettysburg. And today the child is to decide all the great battles, make all the laws, settle all the destinies, and usher in the world's salvation or destruction. Men, women, nations, all earth and all heaven, behold the child! Is there any velvet so soft as a child's cheek? Is there any sky so blue as a child's cheek? Is there any music so sweet as the child's voice? Is there any music so sweet as the child's voice? Is there any plume so wavy as a child's hair? Notice also that in this Bible night scene God honored science. Who are the three wise men kneeling before the Divine infant? Not boors, knotee ascence. Who are the three wise men kneeling before the Divine infant? Not boors, not ignoramuses, but Caspar, Belthasar and Melchior, men who knew all that was to be known. They were the Isaac Newtons and Herschels and Faradays of their time. Their alchemy was the forerunner of our sublime chemistry, their astrology the mother of our alchemy was the forerunner of our sublime chemistry, their astrology the mother of our magnificent astronomy. They had studied stars, studied metals, studied physiology, studied everything. And when I see these scientists bowing before the beautiful babe, I see the prophecy of the time when all the telescopes and microscopes, and all the telescopes and microscopes, and all the Leyden jars, and all the electric batteries, and all the observatories, and all the universities shall bow to Jesus. It is much that way already. Where is the college that does not have morning prayers, thus bowing at the manger? Who have been the greatest physicians? Omitting the names of the living lest we shall be invidious, have we not had among them Christian men like our own Joseph C. Hutchinson, and Rush, and Valentine Mott, and Abercromble, and Abernethey? Who have been our greatest scientists? Joseph Henry, who lived and died in the faith of the gospels, and Agassiz, who, standing with his students among the hills, took off his hat and said: "Young gentlemen, before we study these rocks, let us pray for wisdom to the God who made the rocks." Today the greatest doctors and lawyers of Brooklyn and New York and of this land and of all lands, revere the Christian religion, and are not ashamed to says obsfore juries and lexislatures chemistry, their astrology the mother of our New York and of this land and of all lands, revere the Christian religion, and are not ashamed to say so before juries and legislatures and senates. All geology will yet bow before the Rock of Ages. All botany will yet worship the Rose of Sharon. All astronomy will yet recognize the star of Bethlehem. And physiology and anatomy will join hands and say, "We must, by the help of God, get the human race up to the perfect nerve, and perfect muscle and perfect brain, and perfect form of that perfect child, before whom, night twenty hundred years age, the wise men bent their tired knees in worship.

Behold also in that first Christmas night that God honored the fields. Come in, shepherd boys, to Bethlehem and see the child. "No," they say, "we are not dressed good enough to come in." "Yes, you are; come in." Sure enough, the storms and the night dew and the brambles have made rough work with their apparel, but none have a better dew and the brambles have made rough work with their apparel, but none have a better right to come in. They were the first to hear the music of that Christmas night. The first announcement of a Savior's birth was made to those men in the fields. They were wiseacres that night in Bethlehem and Jerusalem snoring in deep sleep, and there were salaried officers of government, who, hearing of it afterward, may have thought that they ought to have had the first news of such a great event, some one dismounting from a swift camel at their door and knocking till, at some sentinel's question, mounting from a swift came at their door and knocking till, at some sentinel's question, "Who comes there?" the great ones of the palace might have been told of the celestial arrival. No, the sheperds heard the first two bars of the music, the first in the major key and the last in the subdued minor, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men." Ah, yes, the fields were honored.

God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will to men." Ah, yes, the fields were honored.

The old shepherds with plaid and crook have for the most part vanished, but we have grazing—our United States pasture fields and prairie about forty-five unillion sheep—and all their keepers ought to follow the shepherds of my text, and all those who toil in fields, all vine dressers, all orchardists, all husbandmen. Not only that Christmas night, but ail up and down the world's history, God had been honoring the fields. Nearly all the messiahs of reform and literature and eloquence and law and benevolence have come from the fields. Washington from the fields. Jefferson from the fields. The presidential martyrs, Garfield and Lincoln, from the tields Henry Clay from the fields. Daniel Webster from the fields. Martin Luther from the fields. Before this world is right, the overflowing populations of the fields. Daniel Webster from the fields. Martin Luther from the fields. Before this world is right, the overflowing populations of our crowded cities will have to take to the fields. Instead of ten merchants in rivalry as to who shall sell that one apple we want at least eight of them to go out and raise apples. Instead of ten merchants desiring to sell that one bushel of wheat, we want at least eight of them to go out and raise wheat. The world wants now more hard hands, more bronzed cheeks, more muscular arms. To the fields! God honored them when he woke up the shepherds by the midnight anthem, and he will, while the world lasts, continue to honor the fields. When the shepherd's crook was that famous night stood against the wall of the Bethlehem kaln, it was a prophecy of the time when thresher's fiall and farmer's plouw and woodman's ax and ox's yoke and sheaf-binder's rake shall surrender to God who made the country, as man made the town.

Behold, also, that on that Christmas night God honored motherhood. Two angels on their wings might have brought an infant Savier to Bethlehem without Mary's being there at all. When the villagers, on the morning of December 25th, awoke, by divine arrangement, and in some unexplained way, the child Jesus, might have been found in some comfortable cradle of the village. But no, no! Motherhood for all time was to be consecrated, and one of the tenderest relations was to be the maternal relation and one of the sweetest words, "mother." In all ages God has honored good mother; In all ages God has honored good mother; In all ages God has honored good mother; Samuel Budgett, a good mother; Doddridge, a good mother; Walter Scott, a good mother; Benjamin West, a good mother. In a great audience, most of whom were Christians, I asked that all those who had been blessed of Christian mothers arise, and almost the entire assembly stood up. Don't you see how important it is that all motherhood be consecrated? Why did Titian, the Italian artist, when he sketched the Madonna, make it an Italian face? Why did Rubens, the German face? Why did Joshua Reynolds, the English artist, in his Madonna, make it a German face? Why did Joshua Reynolds, the English artist, in his Madonna, make it a Spanish face? I never heard, but I think they took their own mothers as the type of Mary, the mother of Christ. When you hear some one, in sermon or oration, speak in the abstract of a good, faithful, honest mother, your eyes fill up with tears, while you say to yourself, "that was my mother."

The first word a child utters is apt to be "Mother," and the old man in his dying dream calls "Mother! Mother!" It matters not whether she was brought up in the surroundings of a city and in an affluent home, and was dressed appropriately with reference to the demands of modern life, or whether she wore the old-time cap and great round spectacles, and apron of her own neadles, seated by the broad fire-place, with great black log ablaze, on a winter night. It matters not how many wrinkles crossed and recrossed her face or how much her shoulders stooped with the burdens of a long life, if you painted a Madonna, hers would be the face. What a gentle hand she

That would not be fair to call you back. You had troubles enough, and aches enough, and bereavements enough while you were here. Tarry by the throne, mother, till we join you there, your prayers all answered, and in the eternal homestead of our God we shall again keep Christmas jubiles together, But speak from your thrones, all you glorified mothers, and say to all those, your sons and daughters, words of love, words of warning, words of cheer. They need your voice, for they have traveled far and with many a heart-break since you left them, and you do well to call from the heights of heaven to the valleys of earth. Hail, enthroned and you to well eye of earth. Hall, enthroned an-oestry! We are coming! Keep a place right beside you at the banquet.

Slow-footed years! More swiftly run Into the gold of that unsetting sun. Homesick we are for thee, Calm land beyond the sea.

REAL ESTATE NOTES By Sam'l W. Goode & Co.

"HOW IS REAL ESTATE?" we are asked every day. We presume people ask us this because they think we know the market and the outhlook. So we ask those interested in real estate to con-sider the following facts which make Atlanta real estate not only a safe but a paying invest-sider the following facts which make Atlantareal estate not only a safe but a paying investment:

Ist. Atlanta will soon have a most abundant supply of water through her new waterworks, and this will largely increase her manufacturing industries, and, consequently, her population. Increased population means larger demands for homes and business places, and this makes an increased demand for real estate.

2d. The Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad will soon enter the city, and this will be a great system, bringing increased business and more people, and this will be a continuing influence to build up Atlanta.

3d. The Equitable building, the Kiser law building, the McDonald building on Whitehall, the Brady-Miller mammoth stables, the new Peachtree opera house, the new Peachtree Collier hotel, the ten-story Venable building, the new Poilies building, the new police building, the new fire headquarters, the telephone exchange building, the new Grant building, the new Franklin printing building, the great Forsyth street Venable stables. the beautiful Masonic temple, the large Evening Journal building, the mammoth new building for the Conklin tin manufactory, the large Davis manufactory on Marietta street, and the scores of very costly homes, new building and soon to be begun, show a solidity of growth such as Atlanta never had before, and the above is but a partial list.

4th. Besides the above named great establishments, scores and hundreds, yes thousands, of moderate business houses and homes are going up now and will be completed in 1892.

5th. Go where you will in and about the city, streets and sidewalks are being graded and paved, hills leveled down and valleys filled, street car lines are being established and extended, sewers laid, and substantial, permanent improvements being made.

4th. Atlanta's education I facilities are constantly being opened, and special native French and German teachers are doing successful work here. Musical conservatories and art studios, medical and law and technical schools, are constantly being opened, and special native French and German teachers are doing success-ful work here. Musical conservatories and art studios, medical and law and technical schools, lecture courses, business celleges for telegraphy, stenography and the like, and indeed, special institutions for all the sciences, art and literature, are already in operation here and increasing in number, and all have their influence in attracting people to the city, and this influences the enhancement of real estate.
